Magill Estate Shiraz
1995

Magill Estate is a single-vineyard wine. As the name suggests, all grapes are grown on the historic Magill Vineyard, located within the metropolitan area of Adelaide, South Australia.

Magill Estate Shiraz is a departure from PENFOLDS multi-district blending philosophy. It is the only wine now made at Magill, in the same open concrete fermenters which the earlier Granges and Special Bin Reds were created. The wine was created by then Chief Winemaker Don Ditter, working closely with Max Schubert who had retired at this stage. Their brief was to make a wine as unlike Grange as possible. As a consequence, the Magill Estate Shiraz is more elegant, less reliant on sheer power with an emphasis on structure rather than on fruit.

Winemaker comments by John Duval

Deep plum red.

Rich boiled fruit cake/plum pudding and subtle floral notes. Cedar oak characters combine with a slight evidence of chariness and spice. This wine is complex and continues to transform in the glass.

Generous ripe, rich Shiraz fruit soaks up the rounded pleasing tannins. Ripe berry and savoury flavours are complexed by very fine integrated oak that incorporates lovely balance weight and structure to the wine. A profound offering from this single vineyard, handcrafted wine.
